New style of multipurpose casual and climbing wear shorts with excellent storage capacity

Appearing for the first time this season, these gadget shorts, as the name implies, have the special feature of being equipped on both sides with large pockets that can store a variety of tools. The main fabric has excellent durability, using twill fabric made from 100% organic cotton that makes it adept for more athletic situations, and uses a durable canvas fabric for the pocket portions that make it easy to hold things, while also accented with the contrast of two types of materials by means of applying a garment dye. The silhouette, which has a reasonable amount of room and a smart appearance, can fit in from the mountains to the city.

Expressing America's Outdoor Culture

This season features a substantial amount of graphical items that are linked to the collection's theme of the 80s and 90s American outdoors. The collection is comprised of a somehow nostalgic sense, with the iconic "G" logo and vivid colors, combined with pop illustrations that also resonate with street culture. The variety of items is wide, with T-shirts, long-sleeved shirts, sweatshirts, and sweatshirt hoodies. They can be used for coordinating a variety of outfits and will prove useful not just during the spring and summer seasons but all year round.

These reprinted versions of the now famous shorts go perfectly with sporty sandals

These are reprinted versions of the iconic "Jam Shorts" produced by Gramicci when they first appeared on the scene. Their unusually wide silhouette compared to other shorts make them easier to move around in. In fact they even got their name from the fact that they are "easy to jam in." By utilizing the same ripstop material used in the 90s that only looks better with age, we've come up with a design that works really well with "palm straps." These functional sandals feature an extremely grippy outer sole, a toe guard with drainage holes to prevent water from pooling inside the sandal, as well as a footbed made of EVA for a more comfortable fit.

Versatile water resistant and windproof gear

The "Active Shell" line that was introduced this season is characterized by its crisp, resilient texture. It is a durable fabric that is not only water resistant and windproof, but is also resistant to chlorine. The cargo shorts made of this versatile material are able to withstand sudden downpours or gusts of wind with ease. With their comfortable shape and cargo pockets these shorts are as at home on a mountainside or at the beach as they are in town. The flight jacket, also made of that same material, has a simple design with a hood built in to the collar and multiple pockets, making it ideal for outdoor activities.
