

about the collection

Drawing inspiration from a Mediterranean heat wave and the ray of light which casts its luminous touch on limestone walls and terracotta colored pots, causing a striking contrast to the misty shadows – we are welcoming OAS ss24 collection. Supplementary influences are gleaming minerals and glistening evening oceans which cultivate the ever so relevant relationship between OAS and the water. Warm earthy tones and tactile fabrics give a deeper perspective on what has been built throughout the years, and this season continues the experimental feel that was seen in last season's new product additions as the cargo trousers and terry cardigans.

Further variations on how to interpret the OAS print legacy into new pieces and materials are taking a fundamental role in the new season. Working with layering, sizing, and different production technics to take the OAS prints to the next level. Material interpretations such as thinner sculptured terry, and lean knits with prints are adding to the expanding material mixture.

The collection subsists of sleeker women's wear and saturated items for men. Delicate straps and a color scheme that moves from creamy white, scorched red, and mustered yellow, to refreshing cobalt blue, vivid green, and shimmering khaki materials. Handcrafted details are at focus with a knitted slip dress with graceful fringes for her and prints that seem painted with watercolors on the soft viscose shirts. New utility wear is seen on modified styles such as the adventures cargo trousers and long sleeve shirt for him, with details such as practical pockets, updated buttons, and a khaki short wrap skirt for her.
